Sunday School Lesson

We are entering upon the golden age Peril of Prosperity. of the divided kingdom in our study perity. and power. The chapter which contains our lesson holds in a condensed form the record of nearly sixty years of his rule. In the briefer parallel account of Kings we learn that Uzziah was known by another name—Axariah. For forty years of Uzziah's reign Jeroboam II ruled Israel and both kingdoms enjoyed a period of unbroken peace.

Upon the death of Amaziah, who was murdered, like his father, Joash, the popular choice rested upon the sixteen year-old son of the late king. Uzziah was selected by the people because his brilliant genius had impressed them with his ability to rule. Possibly at this time he assumed the official Syrian records in the Kings and upon the pottery of that period. To the people he remained Uzziah, which appears upon the official Syrian records in the Kings and upon the pottery of that period. To the people he remained Uzziah, which appears upon the official Syrian records in the Kings and upon the pottery of that period. To the people he remained Uzziah, which help the people he remained Uzziah, which appears upon the official Syrian records in the Kings and upon the pottery of that period. but fundamental principles promulgated by the Almighty must be observed.

The man and the nation that fall to observe His law are doomed to be punished. Wherever political power overrides truth and righteousness the old drama enacted in the temple between the priests and the king will in essence be repeated. Men may question the merits of Thomas a Becket's contest with Henry II, but no one can for a moment condemn the bravery of the priest who dared to stand up for the rights of his office. We may question the wisdom of some religious people who today are suffering for consciences sake in various lands, but we cannot withhold our approval of the spirit whereby they honor God in rendering "unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are Caesar's and unto God the things that are In modern church life, as in ancient Prosperity has its peril. It tends to de velop pride. This was Uzziah's peril. He forgot the One who had marvelously passed upon the sacred prerogatives of the priest. The clash between Uzziah and the priests that followed was based upon principle. The theory that the king can do no wrong is not tenable. Great leaders are not above law. Hu-man codes and rules may be set aside, but fundamental principles promul-gated by the Almighty must be ob-served.

God is still the same. He will enable all who seek first his will to be successful, just as He did Uzziah who, "As sake in various lands, but we cannot long as he sought the Lord, God made hi mto prosper." The wrecks of life are due to the departure from the naths of God. The one, who works in harmony with God, obeying His will and His law, prespers today.
